ATTORNEY GUY COFF IS HEARD IN STRONG PLEA.

GUILT NOT ESTABLISHED

Even by Circumstantial Evidence According to the Counsel for the Accused.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Milwaukee, Jan. 12.—Attorney Guy D. Coff began his address to the jury this morning in the defense of Ward R. Hedger, accused of the murder of his wife, Louise Hedger, on the morning of September 20th last.

The speaker continued throughout the afternoon and as Norman L. Hase, or did yesterday for the prosecution, Mr. Coff did today for the defense, marshaling the testimony of the many witnesses for the defense and pointing out its significance and attempting to show how it tends to tear down the wall of evidence built up by the state.

"There is nothing against the defendant but suspicion, nothing on which you can convict, unless on inferences and inferences based on facts, but inferences based on inferences."

"Was the gun with which Mrs. Hedger was killed found? No."

"Was there any blood on the defendant's clothing? No."

"There are no facts pointing irresistibly to the guilt of Hedger. There are no facts of circumstantial evidence, based on facts, but inferences based on inferences."

STUDENT COURT IS TO BE ESTABLISHED

Novel Plan to Be Put in Operation at the University Shortly.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., Jan. 12.—The old Anglo-Saxon principle of justice which has become firmly engrained into American government, that a man accused of a crime is entitled to a trial by his peers, is to be established in practice at the University of Wisconsin. The faculty of the Madison State Normal School has determined to petition the board of regents for permission to establish a student court in which shall be tried members of the university community who shall be accused of offenses against the disciplinary peace of the institution. The plan was proposed to the faculty by President Charles R. Van Hise, and to him it was proposed by the so-called student conference committee, a body of leading students representing all the different classes, societies and organizations of students of the university. The proposal was referred to a committee composed of Professor E. C. Hubbard, C. H. Lutz, H. B. West, H. W. Lutz, and W. L. West. The committee has given the report of this committee an adjourned meeting of the faculty Monday night and the next step is to secure the approval of the board of regents. The plan as outlined in the report of the faculty committee is as follows:

"A student court shall be constituted consisting of nine members, six seniors and three juniors, the seniors to hold office for one year, the juniors for two years. Nominations for membership in the student court shall be made by the executive of the student conference committee from the male students of the sophomore and junior classes, two men to be nominated for each one to be elected. Elections shall be by the student conference committee by May of each year except that in the first court the election shall be held as soon as possible after the establishment of the court by the action of the board of regents. The members so elected shall supersede their predecessors immediately upon their election. Vacancies occurring in the court shall be filled in the same manner. Nominations will be made from the class of the member withdrawing."

Other portions of the report set out the processes of trial, keeping of records, report to the faculty and execution of sentence of suspension, as well as processes of appeal. Original jurisdiction is to be had by the court in all cases except alleged dishonesty in examinations and offenses alleged during summer school.

PROMINENT GOTHAM MERCHANT RETIRES FROM ACTIVE LIFE

For Forty Years C. N. Bliss Has Been Known As Successful Financier and Business Man in New York.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
New York, Jan. 12.—None of the changes announced at the beginning of the new year aroused more interest in business circles in the metropolis than that of the retirement of Cornelius N. Bliss from the field of active business and finance. For upwards of forty years Mr. Bliss has been a well known figure in New York and his name comes to mind almost first when one begins tabulating the successful merchants of this city.

Mr. Bliss was born in Fall River, Mass., seventy-seven years ago this month. His father died when he was an infant and his mother remarried and removed to New Orleans. His boyhood was spent in that city. After graduating from the high school in New Orleans he passed one year in his stepfather's counting-room in that city, and then went to Boston to become a clerk in a large dry goods establishment. In 1855 he became a partner of the firm of J. S. and E. Wright & Co., commission merchants, and came to New York to assume the management of the New York office of the firm. In 1881 the firm became Bliss, Pabian & Co., and in recent years it has been known as the greatest retail house in the world, selling goods of the great cotton mills of Fall River and other New England mill centers.

Though Mr. Bliss has always declared he was not a politician, he has figured prominently in the political affairs of his State and Nation. He was Secretary of the Interior in the cabinet of President McKinley and was treasurer of the National Republican Committee during three campaigns. In 1885 he was selected as the Republican candidate for Governor of New York, but declined the nomination. In 1891 he might have had the nomination again, but he refused to consider it.

One of his most intimate friends was the late President Arthur, whom he supported in the notable Chicago convention that nominated Garfield and Arthur. There was a strong resemblance between the two men, and Mr. Arthur's failure to secure the nomination at Chicago when Blaine and Logan were named was a great personal disappointment to Mr. Bliss.

The story has frequently been told of how Mr. Bliss was indirectly responsible for leading Theodore Roosevelt to the Presidency. When the fervent friends of Colonel Roosevelt at the Philadelphia convention were using every effort to induce him to accept the second place on the national ticket, and he was about yielding to the request, Mr. Bliss, who was then a member of the National Committee, intervened and said: "Who is to be President of the United States?" "Theodore Roosevelt," replied one of the friends. "Then Colonel Roosevelt said, 'All right.'"

WILL INVESTIGATE CAR SERVICE RULES

Railroad Commission to Begin Sweeping Investigation February 5.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., Jan. 12.—The railroad commission of Wisconsin has entered upon a searching investigation of the subject of rules and charges concerning demurrage and car service rules. It is said the result may be an order requiring the companies to revise the present rules, and some people are preparing to ask the next legislature for a law requiring the railroads to allow something when they delay a shipment, the same as they charge when a shipper delays unloading a car. The railroad commission is now seeking information and will hold a hearing on these subjects on February 5. A letter of inquiry was recently sent out by the commission as follows:

"We wish to know the facts that we have received many informal complaints with respect to the present car service and demurrage rules in this state, and owing to the further fact that it has come to our notice in various other ways that there is some dissatisfaction with these rules on the part of many shippers, it has appeared to us that it is our duty to enter upon a general investigation of these rules and of all the conditions, regulations and charges connected therewith, for the purpose of determining whether they are just and equitable or whether they are such as to require amendments, additions, or other changes. Notice of such investigation is hereby given in the nature of a hearing in the matter will be held at an early date. All who are interested in this question are kindly requested to furnish us with some pertinent facts and arguments, as they feel will throw some light upon the problems involved and thereby aid us in the solution of these problems. Such facts and arguments may be presented either verbally or in writing at the hearings, or in written statements or briefs at the earliest convenient date."

A circular is enclosed which given side by side the present rules in this state and the rules recommended by the National Association of Railway Commissioners and promulgated by its committee on "Car Service and Demurrage Rules." Careful comparison of these two sets of rules will be of material aid in understanding the nature of the information which we desire."

"Choice of Life's Work": Next Sunday evening the pastor will deliver the third in the series of sermons to young men at the Carroll M. E. church. The subject is "The Choice of Life's Work." The moral and economic problems involved in steady employment will be considered. This is especially interesting, following the discussion on "Industrial Education." All men and boys are invited.

EVEN IN THE JUNGLE. Colonel Roosevelt has discovered a new animal in British East Africa.

NEW YORK HOME HAS A STRANGE HISTORY

Waldo Mansion, Valued At $1,000,000 Has Never Been Occupied Is An Architectural Freak.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

New York, Jan. 12.—When the Waldo house, at the corner of Madison Avenue and Seventy-second street, was put up for sale at public auction today another chapter was added to the singular history of the magnificent mansion that has long been admired by New Yorkers and visitors to the city. For fourteen years this house, with that adjoining it in Seventy-second street, built in the same style of Gothic architecture, has been one of the curiosities in metropolitan real estate circles. They were built in 1895, and with the rich interior furnishings cost approximately $1,000,000. Yet neither of the houses has ever been occupied.

Mrs. Gertrude Rhineland Waldo, mother of the former Deputy Police Commissioner, is the owner of the house. It was built as a copy of a famous French chateau, which Mrs. Rhineland had admired while traveling in Europe. While abroad Mrs. Waldo purchased thousands of dollars' worth of rare tapestries, bric-a-brac and furniture for the house. But to the surprise of her friends she never lived in the house after its completion, nor has any other person been made to find another tenant.

For fourteen years the stately mansion has stood closed and shuttered, a public curiosity. The once the stone front is badly discolored, and storms have damaged the priceless interior fittings, the rain soaking through the great dome in the roof, and percolating through cracks and crevices, to an amount estimated at many thousands of dollars. Mrs. Waldo's most intimate friends, it is said, have never learned the cause for her evident dislike for the mansion upon which she lavished a fortune.

CANADA MAY BUILD ITS OWN WARSHIPS

Domestic Parliament May Decide To Have Navy Separate From English and Construct the Ships.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Ottawa, Ont., Jan. 12.—The Dominion parliament, which resumed its session today after the Christmas recess, is looking forward to the most important discussion in its history. The subject is to be the navy bill, the agitation in regard to which has already attracted the world's attention. According to general opinion the point at issue is no longer whether Canada shall contribute ships to the British navy or start a navy of its own. That the latter course will be adopted seems to be a foregone conclusion and the only point that remains to be settled is whether the ships of the proposed Canadian navy shall be constructed in the Dominion or in England. It is believed that the government's naval bill will recommend the construction of the ships at home. If this policy is adopted it will probably result in several of the leading shipbuilding concerns in Great Britain starting branch establishments in Canada.

GREAT SUGAR TRUST TO CHANGE METHODS

As A Result Of The Recent Disclosures Stockholders Will Reorganize The Company.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

New York, Jan. 12.—Wall street expects a great housecleaning among the high officials of the American Sugar Refining Company as a result of the annual meeting of the stockholders held in Jersey City today. As a result of the shake-up several of the old directors who were relatives of the late H. O. Havemeyer and are succeeded by men who are understood to be in hearty sympathy with the plans of President W. B. Thomas to rid the big corporation of influences that are held responsible for the speculations discovered by the Government and which have already cost the company hundreds of thousands of dollars in fines, legal expenses and refunded customs duties.

A majority of the stockholders of the company are residents of New England. Among them are many widows, school teachers and other small investors who were shocked at the revelations of alleged frauds involving the corporations. These stockholders, who took the initiative in the "reform" movement, were represented at the annual meeting by former Secretary of State Richard Olney.

SUIT WILL SETTLE DISPUTED QUESTION

Stepmother's Rights If Husband Is Widower With Adult Child To Be Determined.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Jersey City, N. J., Jan. 12.—Just how far a stepmother's rights in her husband's household extend if the husband is a widower with an adult daughter, is expected to be settled by Vice-Chancellor Stevenson in a suit which was argued before him today. The action is a suit for separate maintenance brought by Rose W. Bross of Arlington against her husband, Joseph H. Bross, of West Nutley. Mrs. Bross objects to living with her husband. Mrs. Bross objects to living with her husband's daughter, a former marriage. Mrs. Bross, in her complaint, declares that the daughter has "talked against" her and opposed her, and that, since the girl is able to earn her own living as a dressmaker, it is her father's "duty to send her out to work to care of herself." Only on that condition, she says, will she return to her husband. Failing his promise to take such action, she asks that the court order him to pay her a weekly allowance sufficient for her support.

engine developed a maximum speed of 22.25 knots and 35,140-horsepower, while pulling the record for her sister ship, the Florida, in her trials over the same course on October 22. Not even the Neptune, the great super-Dreadnought just launched for the British Navy, is likely to equal her, and the Tellerbach, the fastest of the British Navy at the present time, is completely outclassed in every particular.

But there is in course of construction at the New York Navy Yard, however, a battleship for our Navy which is designed to surpass even the North Dakota. The Florida—as this battleship is called—will be christened when launched in the spring—will be the largest, fastest and most powerful of all battleships. She is to be equipped with the most formidable guns of any ship in the entire world.

COMMISSION PLAN DEFEATED

The commission plan of government was defeated at the polls yesterday by a majority so significant that but little comment is necessary. The voters spoke for themselves, declaring in most emphatic terms that they were satisfied with their city government and did not propose to have it disturbed.

Majorities always rule, and every city has the kind of government which its electors choose to endorse. Janesville is no exception to the rule, and the respectable minority, which favored a business administration, while disappointed, will submit gracefully to the saloons and other professions in control.

The Gazette has no apologies to offer for its activities in the campaign. With the strong and hearty endorsement which the movement had in its inception there was every reason to believe that the people were ready to adopt it without opposition.

The change of sentiment which developed as the campaign progressed and the causes which contributed are of recent history and so familiar that they do not need discussing.

The "recall" was vigorously applied to the 600 odd men who had the temerity to register their vote in favor of progress and the forward movement. They are all back in camp today and will attempt to adjust themselves to the old familiar rules for which the city has long been noted.

The sense of happiness is contentment, and the people of Janesville are the happiest people on earth because of this virtue. Not extravagant in taste and easy to please they enjoy the harmony of the star chamber, the distant hum of the stone crusher, the continuous anthem of praise and satisfaction over street improvements, and the melody of everyday happenings which go to make up the life of a peaceful city. "So note it be."

LUXURY ON THE FARM

The progressive farmer of today is not only the most independent artisan in the field of industry, but many of the luxuries of town and city life are within his grasp and his work is no longer a drudgery.

The good roads movement, which is spreading over the country, places him within easy reach of the home market, and the automobile is rapidly coming into use in the rural districts. The telephone is already a necessity, and the interurban road homecombs the country in many sections.

Electric light and power is so easy to create and maintain that many farmers have well-equipped plants. The electric news service has this to say about the various uses of electricity on the farm:

"There is no longer any reason why even the farmer of moderate means should not enjoy all the home comforts of his city cousin. The day when bath tubs, lighting plants, water systems for fire protection and heating furnaces were to be found only in the larger villages and in the cities has gone forever. Today there are few rural villages too small to boast of all these things and the farmer has caught the spirit of the times and his up-to-date farmhouse is lighted with electricity and heated by steam. It is supplied with fine bathrooms and running water and other modern conveniences.

"A few years ago the electric light and power plants installed on farms were very few and far between. A few adventurous farmers had dared to harness their mountain pasture streams and turn their water energy into electricity for use about the house and barns; a few more had installed gasoline engines for the same purpose. These early installations proved a success from the first and it was not long before their worth had been talked and written about until almost every well-to-do farmer was considering the question of a similar installation.

"Aside from the many benefits and economies of electricity for lighting, heating and cooking in the farmhouse, it readily assumes most of the hard work about the farm which in the past has been a most discouraging factor in securing farm labor. Electrically driven the mill, separating and churning as well as turning the washing machine and the wringer. In the barn it is applied to feed cutters, corn shellers, feed grinders and to all other small machinery, such as the grindstone, lathe and a small buzz saw for cutting fire wood. The threshing machine and fanning mill are very easily belted onto the portable motor. In Germany and a few other foreign countries electricity is also used to advantage to pull the plows, harrows, rakes, cultivators, bladders, mowers and other outdoor machinery.

"In the house the farmer's wife can have her electric cooking devices and electric railroads as well as her city sister.

"The number of electrical plants on farms is increasing with marked rapidity. A few of these plants run by small water powers, but the majority use small gasoline engines and storage batteries. The time is surely coming when the majority of farmers will consider electricity a necessity and no matter how far they are located from electric power stations, or power transmission lines, they will find means to secure plenty of cheap electricity. Many of the electrical engineers of the General Electric company predict that in a few more years the electric power lines will extend out from the cities and large towns into the highways and byways of the country where every farmer can tap the line and purchase at a very reasonable figure all the power he requires for his farm work."

OUR DUMB ANIMALS

"Our Dumb Animals" is the name of a little paper founded by George T. Angot in Boston in 1868 and edited by him for 41 years. He died at ripe old age last year, after giving his life to the most humane work in which a man was ever engaged.

His work is being carried on by "The Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals," "The American Humane Educational Society," and "The American Band of Mercy," under Mr. Angot's old motto, "We speak for those that cannot speak for themselves."

These societies are now engaged in raising funds for a memorial building, and some $25,000 has already been subscribed by friends in all parts of the country. The work is most important and the name of Mr. Angot will long live as the man who conceived it and who did so much to relieve suffering in a kingdom so sadly neglected. The last number of the paper contains the following interesting sketch on the vision of animals:

"Animals have eye troubles and there are many whose sight enables them to distinguish objects only at short distances. The vision of fish is very short and that of most serpents is so poor that they can see no farther than one-third of their own length.

"Frogs are better endowed with sight and can see clearly a distance of twenty times their length. "After studying and testing the eyes of four hundred different animals in the London Zoo, Dr. Lindsay Johnson learned so much about the animals' eyes that he was able to fit glasses to all that were in any way defective.

"A raven, which was operated upon for cataract, has actually been provided with spectacles, which are fitted to the eyes by means of a kind of hood. The improvement in its sight was obvious. Food mixed with sand was placed before it, and the bird at once began to pick out the edible matter.

"My method of examination," said Mr. Johnson, "was to get into a darkened cage in which was the animal and remain for several hours at a stretch at a distance of only a few inches from the eye of the animal, with a strong light cast upon the eye. I examined six lions like that and found that they were not difficult animals to deal with. They became partially hypnotized, and there was a tendency for them to fall into hypnotic sleep. Kangaroos when examined always went to sleep."

President Taft is not seriously disturbed over the middle in congress. He believes in loyalty and is not slow to recognize it. Neither is he slow in condemning the men who are attempting to disrupt the republican party, and embarrass the administration. Taft will be the president during his term of office, and his enemies will sooner or later recognize the fact.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

SMALL HINGES.

A little runt of a boy came shyly forward to greet Mrs. Jones when, tired with her shopping, she sat down on a stool in the towel department.

Mrs. Jones owned a hotel and was buying supplies.

It was the boy's first day at the counter. He had just been promoted from the stock room, where he had made good.

"What is this bolt of towel worth—hotel rates?"

The strapping eyes bulged. "I'll have to ask the head of the department. This is my first day selling goods. Please excuse me, madam, for just a moment."

He rushed to the senior and eagerly made inquiry.

"Are you sure she wants a whole bolt?" said the department head. "Tell her I'll be there in a moment and wait on her myself."

The boy's face fell, but— "What was it? Was it something in the disappointed droop of the young salesman? Anyway, when the man came forward, briskly rubbing his hands, Mrs. Jones said:

"Excuse me; this boy is waiting on me. If you will give him prices we shall get along very well."

They did get along. And when the woman's bill was footed up it came to $60. Ninety dollars! Wouldn't they stare when he turned in his little sales book on his first day's showing?

The sequel? The woman became a regular customer of the boy, who was always attentive and obliging, and brought her friends to the counter. Very soon the boy got a raise in salary and is now head of the department.

A little thing to do, but— It was a big thing to the boy and gave him a fine start upward.

The fact is— LITTLE things are the HINGES on which BIG things TURN.

And you! Probably you will never be able to do big things in a big way, but you can put in a swiftness here and there.

Can't you? A kind word, a thoughtful hint, a little boost—these are worth reams of papers read at the woman's club on the "uplift."

Uncle Walt THE POET PHILOSOPHER.

By WALT MASON (Copyright, 1909, by George Mather Adams.)

The heathen, in his blindness, bows down to wood and stone, and we, with lavish kindness, have sent him many a bone. From many an ancient river, from many a rushing plain, he calls us to deliver him from his deadly chain; we see the gifted preacher pass round the hat or cup, to help this blinded creature, and so we loosen up. And having eased the famine of heathen or the brine, we seek some private Mammon, and worship at its shrine. Like lover to the bride, right swiftly do we wind to some distorted idol that we believe a friend. Here's worshiping the scholar, some theory of his own; the loud and blatant dollar has hoisted before its throne; some dimes are worshiping leading to poodles or to cats; and other ones are bending before imported bats. One man adores an auto, and one has knelt, forlorn, before the sacred crotto where dwells great Harleyeum. In many a modern office, on many a modern coast, true piety a scold is, when trade is upmost.

BELOIT CASE IS NO NEARER SETTLEMENT

Controversy Over Who Has Right to Appoint Watchman Not Decided by City Attorney's Opinion.

(JANESVILLE DAILY GAZETTE.) Beloit, Wis., Jan. 12.—City Attorney Adams has decided that all appointments of police commissioners, regular or special, must be by the chief of police rather than by the mayor. The decision was given in the case of the west side watchman where one man received the appointment of the chief of police and the other of the mayor.

As the watchman is paid for his services by the municipality the decision will not determine who shall hold the job, but is another chapter in the long-drawn controversy over the vested rights of the mayor and chief of police in the matter of appointments.

The prohibitionists opened their state campaign at Beloit with a speech in the Methodist church by W. P. Ferguson of Chicago. He asks the voters of Wisconsin to give his party 25,000 votes and he promises that the county option bill shall be passed.

Prof. Moore of the University of Wisconsin will tonight address the Six O'clock club on the "Sells of Wisconsin."

MADE ANNUAL INSPECTION

Committee No. 3 Reported This Morning
on Accounts of Receiving and Disbursing Officers.

With regard to the sale of the old jail it was the sense of the county board of supervisors yesterday afternoon that no disposition of the property should be made at this time. The supervisor there was named as a committee of one to arrange for transportation to the county farm this morning and procured three carriages to take the board members (thither for one o'clock dinner and the annual inspection of the property.

Chairman L. E. Gottle of Edgerton was not on hand when the board assembled at 10:30 this morning and Vice Chairman J. A. Paul of Milton presided in his stead.

Committee No. 3, which has to do with the accounts of receiving and disbursing officers, reported through the chairman, J. C. McEvoy, that the accounts of various county officers had been examined and found correct and the report was adopted. In a detailed review of Treasurer A. M. Church's accounts it was shown that receipts aggregated $321,511.21 and that disbursements and credits included the following items: State tax—$85,460; cash balance on hand less outstanding checks—$25,532.56; permanent road fund—$25,537.40; county school money—$38,644.26; state school money—$37,573.49. The committee announced that it had charged to this officer the following items: tax levy—$231,901.64; uncollected personal property—$22,190.99; cash on hand—$22,532.56; tax certificates—$3,904.51. In reviewing the county clerk's accounts attention was called to such items as the 223 marriage licenses at 50 cents which brought in a revenue of $111.50 and $22,272.41 according to taxes redeemed during the year.

Supervisor M. P. Richardson raised a question as to whether or not the jail had come to the county's share of the liquor license fees and municipal court fines and penalties. Supervisor Simon Smith replied that half the liquor license money had been turned over and that he had been assured that from $2,000 to $1,200 of the municipal court money would be paid within ten days and the balance at intervals during the year. Ninety-eight per cent of this revenue goes to the state but has to pass through the county treasurer's hands. It is estimated that the aggregate amount due for the period ending from the establishment of the jail court is from $3,000 to $4,000. Plans for this trifling oversight is laid at the door of the line city treasurer. The common council's finance committee is now carefully going over all the records.

Committee No. 1 reported that tax receipt No. 46, issued to W. H. H. Macdonald in May, 1909, contained an erroneous description and ownership and moved that the sum of $4.20 and 16 cents interest be refunded to Mr. Macdonald; the certificate cancelled; and the amount charged against the town of Johnston. The motion was carried.

Supervisor John Tallar asked for an expression of sentiment from his colleagues regarding some plan of getting around the present road map involved in paying for repairs on county roads. Men who undertook such work, he declared, wanted their pay when it was finished and were unwilling to wait until the town clerk should issue an order on the county clerk and the latter should draw on the county treasurer. Such orders on the county clerk could not be cashed in advance and it frequently happened that the worker was a week getting his money after his task was finished. No helpful suggestions were offered.

Chairman S. S. Jones of the committee on highways moved that the executive committee be authorized to submit a special order of business for Thursday afternoon at two o'clock and invited a free expression of opinion at that time. The motion was carried.

The supervisors started on their sleigh-ride to the county farm at 12 o'clock and the inevitable band of arching snow-balls at Milwaukee and Bluff streets. The session at the court house was not resumed until after 2:30 this afternoon.

FARMER HAD NARROW
ESCAPE FROM DEATH

Plymouth Farmer and Two Daughters Escaped Serious Injury Yesterday Afternoon.

George Zanzinger, a farmer residing at Plymouth and his two daughters had a narrow escape from death yesterday afternoon about five o'clock when the heavy bob sled in which they were riding was overturned when the driver attempted to dodge over a ditch, another sled and an approaching train at the Flyo Point. Although the accident did not result fatally, Mr. Zanzinger received a deep gash in his forehead in addition to an injury to his arm which he received when the other sled passed over his body.

The fact that the St. Paul Ry. had piled the snow in a way that made it impossible for two teams to pass, was responsible for the accident. In an attempt to cross the tracks in front of an approaching train, and at the same time dodge several children who were trying to catch a ride and another sled, the Zanzinger rig was overturned, the two young women thrown under the box and the driver thrown under the other sled.

After flagging a switch engine which threatened to ram the sled, spectators released the women from their dangerous position and took the man to M. J. Roberts's grocery store where his injuries were dressed. After a short rest he was able to drive home.

NEW $1,500 MODEL MAXWELL
TOURING CAR

Just Received in Janesville.

This $1,500 model, five-passenger Maxwell this year is quite a surprise to the trade and public in many ways. All the Maxwell principles of construction have been retained with some few minor improvements, but as far as lines go this model surpasses anything ever put out by the Maxwell Motor Car Company. The wheelbase is 110 inches, four inches longer than this same model last year, which sold for $250 more than the 1910 car. The tires are 34x4 all around and the horsepower of the motor has been increased 17 per cent, although the model is styled a "30".

The model comes in a five-passenger touring car with detachable tonneau and also in a sporty looking roadster model. The rear spring construction has been changed to a three-quarter scroll design. Magneto is a part of the regular equipment of all Maxwell models this year.

In addition to the car shown, there is a Model Q, four-cylinder, rated at 22 horsepower and the model A-A, the two cylinder, little runabout style Model "Q 3", a four-cylinder tonneau type, sells for $1,000.

Placed from the Maxwell factory show there are 19,278 Maxwell cars in use today.

The Maxwell line will be handled in Janesville by the Hunch-Hood-Gage Co., offices and garage in new building on N. Main St. They will also handle the famous Kissel Car.

The new garage will be opened about February first.

PASSENGER TRAIN
STRUCK A LABORER

Chicago Italian at Work Near Passenger Depot Was Injured Last Night.

While working between the rails just south of the C. & N. W. Ry. station last night about half past eight o'clock, Sam Pella of Chicago, employed by the road as a snow shoveler, was struck by the hotel passenger train, number 98, in charge of Conductor Dower and Engineer Shields, and painfully but not seriously injured.

Fortunately the train was moving slowly at the time or he would have been killed. From what can be learned, he was bent almost double while scooping out water from the switch near the water spout and did not hear the train. He was unconscious when picked up and was immediately taken to the hospital. In addition to being cut about the head, he was severely shaken up but it is thought that there are no internal injuries.

FREDERICK COHEN TO BE PUNISHED
WAITER WHO ELOPED WITH YOUNG HEIRESS MAY GET LIFE SENTENCE.
PROSECUTION TO BE VIGOROUS

Philadelphia Authorities Are Preparing to Try Man on Either Abduction and Conspiracy or Statutory Charge—Wife Critically Ill.

Philadelphia, Jan. 12.—It is expected that Roberta De Janon, the 17-year-old heiress, granddaughter of the millionaire seedsmen, Robert Hulst, and Frederick Cohen, the Bellevue-Stratford waiter who eloped from this city two weeks ago will arrive here from Chicago Thursday.

May Get Life Punishment.

It is the intention of the department of public safety to endeavor to convict Cohen on the charge of abduction. Director Clay said that Cohen would be prosecuted to the full extent, and if convicted, he can under the law be sentenced to imprisonment for life. The prosecution will be brought under the act which was enacted by the legislature following the famous kidnapping of Freddie Muth several years ago. District Attorney Rotan said that the city would conduct the prosecution and he would take charge of the case. He said that the charge had not been finally decided upon, but that it would probably be either abduction and conspiracy or a statutory charge.

Girl's Presence Not Necessary.

"The proceedings in this case will vary from those ordinarily followed, because Cohen has waived requisition rights," said the district attorney. "Cohen comes here willingly on a warrant and will be arraigned for a preliminary hearing before a magistrate. It will not be necessary for Miss de Janon to appear at this hearing if the evidence is sufficient to hold Cohen. Should Cohen be held then his counsel will have an opportunity to take advantage of the habeas corpus act and have his side of the case presented in one of the local courts before the case is taken to the grand jury.

"Should any change be decided upon in the charge to be brought against Cohen another warrant will be issued and served upon him when he arrives."

The ordinary procedure in requisition cases would bring the case directly before the grand jury.

Grandfather is Elated.

Elated by the finding of his granddaughter and anxious to welcome her with open arms, Robert Hulst made arrangements to bring Miss de Janon to this city with as little publicity as possible and arrangements looking toward the fullest measure of protection for the heiress will be made.

Mrs. Cohen, the deserted wife, is critically ill, and is under the care of a physician at the house of Mrs. Dawson.

"He's found at last," said Mrs. Cohen. "I wish that I were able, I would go to him. I knew that he never would have deserted me unless that girl lured him away. And she admits it brazenly, too, that she planned to win my husband from me."

Precipitates Riot When Fowl

Hammond, Ind., Jan. 12.—Greek fought Slav in a Hammond company boarding house until the place resembled a shambles and 20 or more of the participants were injured. Several of them required the services of a surgeon so serious were the wounds. The riot was precipitated by the stealing of a rooster, although bad blood exists among the two races to a considerable degree.

It was the last day of the New Year celebration and a rooster stolen from a Slav started the riot. Beer bottles and knives were used as weapons. So desperate were the rioters, several of them had to be roped and carried to the police station. The house was wrecked in the riot.

JUDGE MERCIFUL TO HUNGRY.

Magistrate Buys Man Square Meal Which He Eats in Cell.

New York, Jan. 12.—Henry Westenberg, a carpenter who had been out of work for four months, threw two Indian clubs crashing into a window of the Waldorf-Astoria dining room. He was so hungry that the sight of people eating in the luxurious surroundings of the hotel almost crazed him, he said. Magistrate Kernochan, before whom he was arraigned, sent out for a good square meal, which the man ate in his cell.

Joseph McAvoy, another unfortunate who had had nothing to eat for two days, snatched a woman's purse, and Captain Hurlend, at the East Twenty-second street station, did for him just what Magistrate Kernochan had done for Westenberg. Both will be sent to the workhouse.

FIREMEN HAVE NARROW ESCAPE.

Seven Are Overcome by Smoke in a $200,000 Blaze.

Chicago, Jan. 12.—Seven firemen, huddled in and overcome by smoke, were brought out unconscious in two trips of a rescue party last night at a fire which destroyed the Johnson Bros. department store, 2930 to 2932 Milwaukee avenue and caused a property loss of $200,000.

The fire started from the electric wiring, fifteen minutes after the store closed, and while the night watchman was on duty. It spread so quickly that it got beyond control in a few minutes and burned until nothing but the shell of the building remained three hours later.

New York, Jan. 12.—With the purpose of rebuilding the shattered fortunes of her husband and obtaining a pension for him, Mrs. Charles W. Morse, has opened an office at 43 Exchange place and has taken entire charge of the convicted banker's financial affairs.

Mrs. Morse has made her business headquarters in the building which the little flanneler had constructed for the home office of his many great enterprises.

In striking contrast with the luxurious chambers where her husband once did business, are the little rooms on the fourth floor, which his wife has rented. There is no name on the door. The office is only known to other tenants as No. 1107.

Miss Catherine Wilson, once the private stenographer of Morse, who figured spectacularly in several fee pools, the details of which were fully exploited at the time of the trial, is now the secretary of his wife.

APPEAL OF BARONESS HEARD.

Her Attorney Sharply Criticizes Princess Louise's Action.

Paris, Jan. 12.—The appeal of the Baroness Vaughan from that part of the decision of December 22 in which the court ordered an inventory of her property at Halkcourt, was heard. Decision was reserved for one week. In the course of his pleading the attorney for the baroness severely criticised the action of Princess Louise in tying up the appellant's property in Belgium and France, pointing out that her sisters, Clementine and Stephanie, had refused to join in the undignified proceeding of "dismissing the extent of their father's liberality toward the baroness."

BOSTON RE-ELECTS FITZGERALD.

Former Congressman Is Again Named as "Hub" Mayor.

Boston, Jan. 12.—The biggest, quietest election Boston ever knew resulted in the choice of John F. Fitzgerald, former congressman and former mayor, as mayor under the new charter.

Fitzgerald's margin is only 1,326 in a total of 93,000 out of a registration of 97,000, and his nearest opponent, James J. Storrow, the banker, will likely demand a recount. Mr. Storrow has expended a fortune as the candidate of the Municipal League.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Jan. 12.—An explosion at the Nottingham colliery of the Lehigh & Wilkesbarre Coal Company last night caught a number of workmen. Six were killed and four injured.

Officials of the company, headed by General Manager Huber, are trying to get into the working where it is said a fire is raging.

AWAY GOES DYSPEPSIA, HEARTBURN, STOMACH GAS AND OTHER MISERY

Take a little Peppermint now and your stomach will feel fine five minutes later.

As there is often some one in your family who suffers an attack of indigestion or some form of stomach trouble, why don't you keep some Dr. Williams' Pink Pills handy?

This harmless blending will digest anything you can eat without the slightest discomfort, and overcome a sour, gassy stomach five minutes after.

Tell your pharmacist to let you read the formula plainly printed on these 50-cent boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. You will readily see why it makes indigestion, sour stomach, heartburn and other distress go in five minutes and relieves at once such troubles as Belching of Gas, Eructations of sour indigested food, Nausea, Headaches, Dizziness, Constipation and other stomach disorders.

Some folks have tried so long to find relief from indigestion and dyspepsia or an out-of-order stomach with the common every-day cures advertised that they have about made up their minds that they have something else wrong, or believe theirs is a case of Nervousness, Gastritis, Catarrh of the Stomach or Cancer.

This, no doubt, is a serious mistake. Your real trouble is what you eat and not digest; instead, it ferments and sours, turns to acid, gas and stomach poison, which putrefies in the digestive tract and intestines, and, besides, poisons the blood with noxious odors.

A hearty appetite, with thorough digestion, and without the slightest discomfort or misery of the stomach, is waiting for you as soon as you decide to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

HAVE you absolute repose of manner?

If you have you are one in a hundred.
Or maybe a thousand would be closer.

For it sometimes seems to me that repose of manner is a lost art with the girls of today.

"More repose of manner, Ruthie, more repose of manner," an old aunt of mine used to say to me when I was a nervous little girl and fidgeted from hassock to high back chair and back in her stiff old parlor.

And though I had but a vague idea of what the words meant at the time, I used to make up my mind that it must be something very objectionable if Aunt Eliza urged it and that I would take care never to have it.

But I've changed my mind now.

I sat beside a girl in a car yesterday. She was a pretty girl, well dressed and refined looking. She was talking vivaciously to her companion in a voice that for a wonder was fairly well modulated. To judge from the fragments that floated my way she was saying rather interesting things.

She sat well, way back in the seat, erect, and with her feet squarely on the floor instead of crossed in the undignified fashion so many of the young girls of the present day affect.

Her appearance and manner might have been perfect but for one thing. She wore a tiny locked on a little gold chain and constantly as she talked she twisted and twirled and tossed and played with the chain and its trinket. Never for an instant did the restless motion cease.

Just a mannerism?

Yes, but it showed she did not have that kind charm that would have been a crown for all the rest—repose of manner.

The other day I turned instinctively to look after a girl who had passed me on the street. For a moment I hardly knew what it was that had attracted my attention and made me look after her, and then all at once I realized that the thing that made her distinctive in the crowd was simply and solely the fact that she was not hurrying.

She was moving easily and gracefully. I do not mean sauntering nor even walking extremely slowly; just not rushing. And from her calm movements, made so noticeable by the scrumbliness of the crowd, it seemed to me as if I could almost see peace and repose radiating.

How many minutes do you suppose those who rushed by her gained over her by their hurried movements?

Five minutes in an hour, perhaps.

And how much nerve force do you think they lost?

Well, I don't know whether to measure nerve force by inches or pounds or volts or bushels, so I can't tell you exactly, but I'm pretty sure that it was entirely disproportionate to the time gained.

Now do not misunderstand me, and confuse repose of manner with languidness.

It is just as far from that as it is from fidgetiness and nervous haste.

The amiable, listless girl who never moves quickly and is too lifeless to fidget, does not possess repose of manner.

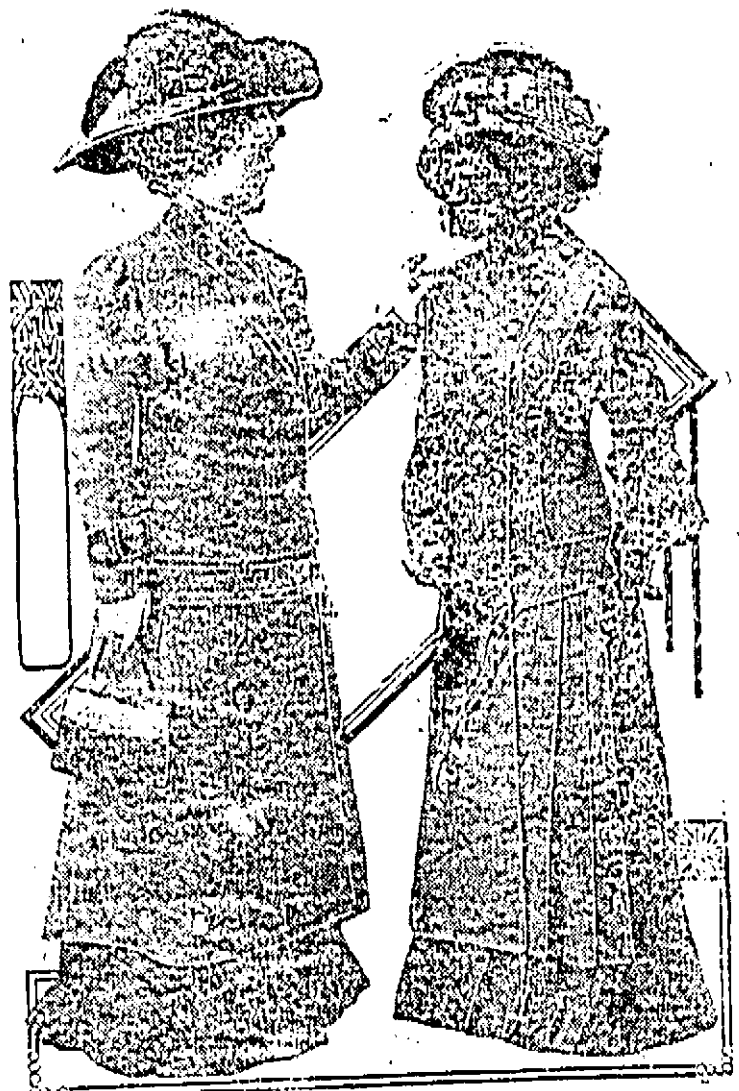

Repose of manner is the result of perfect physical energy and vigorous health and mental liveliness and strong passions all in perfect harmony and under perfect control.

All the colors combined make white.

All the energies combined make balance from which comes the perfect repose of manner.

And now I'm wondering what Aunt Eliza would say if she knew that her small niece who used to fidget from hassock to highback chair and back again were actually writing on "repose of manner."

Coincidence!

"Now, Tommie," said the teacher, "you may give me an example of a coincidence." "Why, er," said Tommie, with some hesitation, "why, er, why—me fadder and me mudder was both married on de same day."—Hart's Weekly.

Condemnation of Envy.

Envy is almost the only vice that is prevalent at all times and in every place, the only passion that can never be quiet for want of irritation; its effects, therefore, are everywhere discernible, and its attempts always to be dreaded.—Dr. Johnson.

By MRS. QUINN'S PHILOSOPHY.

MRS. QUINN.

"Come in and sit a bit," said Mrs. Quinn cordially. That is one charm about the poorer class as a rule. They make you feel, come even when your grand is an important one. They are more inclined to a surly attitude. They are not so much in the wrong, either, for no one would like some of the impudent prying into private matters that is done under the guise of settlement work. Young girls, just out of school, who assume an air of worldly knowledge to women who have toiled for the child she may not have the education to bring up rightly, but that she has had the courage to scrub for up to the very edge of its life, and again before the baby eyes grew to see her face as different from the others.

The poor tired woman of the very poor—the mother—who and use their strength and patience on the cleanliness and health of the wealthier woman who employ them, small wonder that their own home goes unscrubbed. The sorrow of all the world looks out from their eyes even when they smile and they do smile often—the wonder of it! But this is a long way from Mrs. Quinn, and such hospitality should not be kept waiting.

"Hess yer heart," says Mrs. Quinn. "No, I'm not gait to the Mother's meeting." And for why not? I'll tell ye, honey, but whisper—it's that I'm that tired of being told how to raise a child by a lot of old mads—or young wans either. Oh, yis, there are some come who have born children, but not many that have had the work to do for them. Wan woman, I says, says she, 'My dear Mother, I have had two children and they are now in college don't you?' says she, and I feel that I can help you by telling ye the way to make the child stay in the home, says she. And this she says in how we must read to them and make them have a happy time in the evening; we must visit the teacher and get to know the teacher and she, it is also to study with the child, says she, and so be able to help them study their lessons in the evening. Let them laugh and sing and make merry in the home, says she, and then they will not go dippin' ears and runnin' wild.

"That sounds like good sense, ma'am, but is it? I have to work all day to get the food for the young wans, and me old man has his hands full to pay the rent and keep the house. I'm not able to read very much to myself and the kids would laugh I tried to read to them—and then, when would I be able to find the time? Every day I wash for some body at night. I am that tired that the time the supper is on the table I'm not merry, ma'am, and I'll be honest enough to say it. Their father, is it? Well, ma'am, a man can't be bothered with the young wans you know. He be that tired and cross that they shy around mighty careful, I'm telling ye!

"Wan day they had a man to the Mother's meeting." The wonder of that now! He to be a sithin' there a tellin' the women that had borne four and five and six children just what to do to bring 'em all up to be prudent! He was full of those things ye call those-ousies, but when Mrs. Maddigan's baby began cryin' he got so nervous he lost his place and he put her, ma'am, I think I'll be honest, too, ma'am. I couldn't but think it would be a good thing if the Lord would let him come back and have to raise six children in three rooms, ma'am, and the water next door, when the fustest ain't froze, and a man couldn't 'scent from the city hall tellin' ye to clean up yer kids or he'll have 'em off to the home for feeble-minded children. He'd have some things loaded these-ousies to work on ma'am, and a good thing too. No, I'm 'sithin' to stay home the afternoon and scrub."

Commune with yourself now and then; "enter the silence" and get in touch with the infinite for a few minutes each day.

Put business and world cares out of your life and let your thoughts radiate into eternity for awhile, into a pure, spiritual realm, and ten to one you will return to work with greater poise, more nerve strength, less interior tension and a better mental attitude towards life generally.

Most of us are too busy to learn of the richness of our innermost thoughts. We all have high thoughts if we would but furnish them an opportunity for expression. "When we begin to settle down reposefully we learn that the soul is a center of revelation, an organ of the divine life; that each individual point of view is of worth in relation to ultimate truth. Much wisdom will be made known through us when we become silent enough to perceive it." When our soul is touched we are refreshed and our life is renewed. In the silence, if you are calm, prayerful and receptive, the Infinite Wisdom will touch your soul.

Oakland, Cal.—Captivated by the glamour of the footlights, Miss Margaret Medbury, daughter of M. B. Medbury, a capitalist of prominence in Oakland and a near relative of Mrs. Bradley Martin, wealthy leader of New York and London, has turned from the frivols of society and joined the company playing at Ye Liberty Theater.

For the last three weeks, unknown to her friends, she has been appearing in a part in "The Love of the Lancha," and such is her love for the work that she unhesitatingly cut the ties binding her to the smart set, declaring that her ambition was centered on the stage and on the steps she intended to remain.

Tens know her not. At dances she is absent. Society, missing her, wondered and the wonderment culminated in a gasp of astonishment when it was learned that Miss Medbury, member of the innermost circles of the exceptionally exclusive and brilliant of dramatic art.

As the beautiful daughter of a wealthy man and close relative of New York's leading society figure, Miss Medbury naturally gravitated to a secure position in society. This was expected of her and for a time she fulfilled all expectations.

A few months ago, however, she decided that society could travel its own path without her, and that she could travel hers very much better without society. Also there was the ambition for the stage. She made her plans quickly and without ado.

When ready she broadcast the subject to her parents and then to her closest friends. The usual storm followed. The usual arguments were made. And at the conclusion she reiterated her desires, whereupon the parental consent was given in desperation and three weeks ago Miss Medbury, thrilling with a new found joy, waved farewell to society and her friends and stepped into the limelight.

She seems to have a comprehensive grasp of what her step means. "It means a hard struggle," she said, "I have health and ambition and believe I can succeed. It is not a dance, but I did not expect it to be. I know that the steady drappling at rehearsals and the performances, night after night, would mean nothing but work. Yet I like it and intend to do my best."

Though a resident of Oakland, Miss Medbury has spent much of her time traveling. She is an accomplished musician, thoroughly cultured and educated. She was named after Mrs. Bradley of New York.

Boring Artesian Wells.

The boring of an artesian well is not an easy task. The well of Grenelle, France, required from December 4, 1833 to February 26, 1841, for completion. The one at Passy, of the same depth took only two years to make. Engineers now count upon one year in which to complete the well of Malmaison-Lafitte. This well is already at a depth of 550 meters. It will go to a depth of 650 meters.

Tommy Burns By WALT MASON

From the cave of gloom he bounces with great gusto, and announces that he's weary of inaction and will soon invade the ring, and—if none his message carries—he will scrap for chalk or marbles, heads of cabbage, jugs of elder—any dippy sort of thing. He is merely after honor; he would show he's not a goner, that he's just a weary martyr in the web of circumstance; that man Johnnie hypnotized him, which so baffled and surprised him that he found he'd lost the battle ere he had a half chance. For another chance he's yearning, martial fire within him burning, and he'll fan the whole caboodle, separate or in a group; he will whip a people that he isn't in the soup. We, the sports, will hold no grudges; we are merely patient judges, who consider deeds more bold than ambitions or desires, and it seems to us that Thomas would seem more a man of promise if he'd spend his few remaining years in Hicking Old Bill Squires.

TWILIGHT CLUB'S MEETING SERENE

SUBJECT DID NOT CAUSE MUCH ACRIMONIOUS DISCUSSION.

VERY LITTLE EXCITEMENT

Subject, "Industrial Education," Did Not Tap Founts of "Commission Plan."

Although the subject, "Industrial Education," discussed in its various aspects by the members of the Twilight club at their meeting last night was ably handled and brought some interesting information, as a theme for fervid oratory of, nevertheless, debate, the proposition of "Industrial Education" brought up at the December session, has, in street parlance, "got it backed into a corner
and shooting for help." This address, prepared by the four speakers on
the program aroused and sustained the interest of the members, but the meeting did not more resembled its historic predecessor than a session of the supreme court resembles a former first ward primary.

International in its scope, such an involved subject as "Industrial Education" could not be handled in detail,
but the various speakers had been made with such skill and the speakers brought out the important aspects with such clearness that their hearers
were able to bring away a good working knowledge of what "Industrial Education" really is, what progress has been made in securing its adoption in the schools of this country,
and what the ideals of its sponsors
are.

In connection with the addresses,
and serving as an example of what manual training, a modification of industrial education, has done for the pupils of the Janesville schools, specimens of the students' handwork were arranged in cases on the walls. The articles ranged from paper outlines cut out by kindergarten children to lath work, steel forging, and baked goods from the hands of advanced students. This display was used on numerous occasions by Professor Buell in explaining certain points in his address on what is being done
along the line of industrial education
by the state of Wisconsin and by the local schools.

In view of the fact that the words,
"Industrial Education," are accepted with varying senses, it was thought best to define their meaning,
and to this task, Rev. David Benton,
who made his initial bow to the club,
addressed himself.

Rev. Benton, industrial education is not a technical education
such as given at the Boston "Tech"
or the College of Engineering at the University of Wisconsin, and which is preceded by a high school education.
Neither is it what the European people call a trade school although the emphasis of the trade schools is practical. According to the speaker,
the real definition of the subject, "Industrial Education" is as follows:

"It is such a modification of the school curriculum as will enable the pupils to fit and prepare themselves to earn their own livelihood. Modern conditions emphasize the mechanical and commercial aspects of the subject."

With reference to the revolution
that would take place in the city schools should the idea of industrial education be made a fundamental principle, he stated that as one third of the studies now pursued are literary, and another third scientific,
should the remaining third be used for the study of the mechanical, industrial, and commercial aspects of life, the result would be brought about. In this connection, however, he emphasized the fact that the primary object of the whole educational system is almost entirely "educational"
and should make the scholars intelligent and useful citizens. The speaker also quoted some astonishing figures with regard to the number of children who never reach the high school or even the eighth grade, who are forced to begin work upon leaving school after learning nothing in the labor. According to the speaker, when a scholar has finished grade school and school or even two years of high school, which is as far as the great majority ever get, he should have acquired the fundamental principles of a trade and possess knowledge that is productively valuable. But in all this,
the principle of education should not be neglected for the mere mechanical knowledge.

Joseph Weber.

One aspect of the subject, "Industrial Education," was treated by Joseph Weber, manufacturer, who is vitally interested in the successful prosecution of preparing the youth for various trades and in his address, Mr. Weber described the fact that the project had not been pushed at an earlier stage of the game, for to his mind, industrial education is more necessary even than a protective tariff and equally effective. According to the speaker, the training of pupils along mechanical lines is responsible for the great manufacturing supremacy of Germany, a country that has been a pioneer in this kind of school work.
He described the conditions in Germany, how it is compelled to import most of its food supplies and to maintain its place among the powers of Europe
by the skill of its workmen. Recognizing the importance of having skilled workmen, the government has placed more and more emphasis on industrial and technical training in the schools, until they are now considered to be the best in the world.
Although the United States has become aroused to the importance of this work, it has only been carried on during the past ten years and that in a rather ineffective fashion. Were it not for the enormous exports of foodstuffs and the inventive genius of the Yankee, this country would have been forced to follow in the footsteps of Germany. Even now, its importance has been greatly increased if proper steps were taken to make every pupil
a skilled artisan in some trade.

Unlike the national government,
manufacturing industries have recognized the prime importance of train-

schools and the great textile establishments in the east and south have been instrumental in establishing
trade schools to train their employees.
"To bring the matter nearer home," Mr. Weber told how hard it was for the manufacturer to get competent help and how, especially where the wages were paid the beginner in order to induce him to stay and become expert in the mechanical end of the work. He also dwelt on the importance of reaching those scholars between the ages of twelve and fourteen,
for in many cases the pupils are not able to receive many years of instruction, due to the necessity of "getting out and hustling" to increase the family income.

Leader Explains

"Of course," said Mr. Weber, "in advancing industrial education, I am not talking against Latin and all that sort of stuff."

In this connection Dr. Buckmaster explained that at the present time every pupil in the eighth grade in the local schools is taught manual training, and that the board of education is considering the advisability of establishing an elective course in agriculture that will not interfere with the regular course of study now followed.

Claude J. Hendricks Claude J. Hendricks was next on the program and spoke on the subject.

"What is being done for industrial education by the Federal Government?" This address followed:
"In providing schools where the young man can be taught how to use his hands or his head in mechanical trades, the federal government has done nothing except incidentally."

"At a time when there is a demand everywhere for schools which, along with the three R's, will give a boy
the training that apprenticeship gave him, the federal government is inactive."

"While private institutions throughout the country are hastening to add technical schools to train young men
for work in our great industrial institutions, and are struggling along with inadequate facilities through lack of funds, the federal government, with unlimited money, stands idly by."

"In only one line of industrial education is the federal government doing anything or spending anything and that is in agriculture, and the results obtained from the amount expended are such that it almost paralyzes the imagination to guess at what might be done if the government displayed
a little generosity."

"And it is only as an incident to this agricultural instruction that the government is teaching mechanical subjects, for in most, if not all, of the agricultural schools and colleges certain instruction is given in certain handicrafts such as carpentry and blacksmithing."

"The government is now giving annually to the state and territories about $2,000,000 for the support of institutions in which agricultural education and research are the leading features, and recent legislation provides for the gradual increase of this amount until a total of $3,500,000 is reached, a part of which is to be used to train teachers of agriculture. This amount is divided among 48 states,
and 65 institutions, each state expend, and each state college of agriculture and mechanical arts receiving $50,000."

"In 1882 congress gave funds to various states to be sold and the proceeds used as endowment funds for institutions and colleges related to industries."

"From these the colleges receive an annual income of about $15,000
for all states, or a total of about $750,000, making the total annual aid of the federal government to these institutions about $1,500,000."

"In 1907 a bill was introduced in congress to appropriate annually $8, 000,000 for industrial education in high schools of secondary grade, and about one-half of this was to be devoted to instruction in mechanical arts
and home economics in city high schools, and one-half to instruction in agriculture and home economics in agricultural high schools, but the congressmen, not being able to see how this would get them any votes, failed to pass the bill."

ADVERSE VOTE ON COMMISSION

VOTERS OF JANESVILLE DECIDE NOT TO ACCEPT THE NEW LAW.

MAJORITY OPPOSED 395

Fourth and Fifth Wards Give Strong Opposition to the Proposed Plan
By Large Vote.

By a vote of 1917 against 622, the voters of Janesville on Tuesday decided the plan of adopting the Wisconsin state law which provides for Janesville by the commission form of government. The contest at the polls was a most spirited one, the friends and opponents to the law working to secure as large a vote as possible.

The Fourth and Fifth wards gave a decided majority against the proposed measure. In the Fourth ward the vote stood 212 against the plan and 101 for its adoption—a total of 298 majority against the plan in this ward alone.
In the Fifth ward the vote was 158 against and 40 for the plan—a majority of 118 against the plan.

"The Third ward was the only ward

which gave the proposed change in form of government a majority and here the vote stood 217 for and 200 against the measure. In the Third ward the vote was somewhat closer than in the other wards, the opposition of the law polling 171
votes and the backers of the law 132.
In the Second ward the vote was 172
against the law and 101 in favor of it.
The total vote cast and counted was 1017 in favor of the law and 622 against it. However, there was a total vote of somewhat large figures as many voted who failed to register
their vote, having pushed the pointer
back to the middle of the machine, or voting "yes" or "no," instead of pulling the curtain lever and making a choice.

their vote, having pushed the pointer

Rumors which started at the last session, to the effect that if the commission plan was adopted all unions
would be closed, that if the commission plan was adopted the democratic party
would be legislated out of existence;
that the Janesville Water company factored the law because they believed they could evade paying water mains ordered and that the Janesville Electric company had a contract with the city running for fifty years—all had their effect upon the voter.

Another peculiar feature of the campaign just closed is the fact that the opponents to the law, the men who were most prominent in the work against its adoption at the last meeting, many of them had signed a call to the mayor for the holding of the election. The change of sentiment in the matter had considerable weight with the rank and file of the voters.

Even on the part of many taxpayers and voters, without the recall, the name of us did the fact that the liquor element were almost unanimously against it for some unknown reason.

While the result of the vote in Janesville will undoubtedly have its effect upon other cities in the state
who are planning to vote on the question of the same elements pro and con
will not be found in any other community. Fear that Janesville would lose its sacred city charter was one of the slogans of the opposition, although many failed to recognize the fact that this special charter had been so altered by later amendments and special legislation adoption of the general charter provisions that it exists only in name.

It was but one minute after seven when the first report came in, from the Second ward. The first followed a minute later; then came the Fourth and Third, and last the Fifth. All were in the office and the result known inside of seven minutes after the polls closed at seven o'clock.

From seven until after the telephones rang almost constantly keeping two persons busy announcing the result
to the questioners. Many expressed their regret that the law had been defeated; some appeared jubilant
over the victory, and a few offered all sorts of advice as to the future conduct of the paper in other matters.

Considering it from every point of view Janesville and Janesville's business interests were most vitally interested in the result of the election.
The men who worked for the adoption of the law were apparently not discouraged and there was some talk heard on the streets today of bringing the matter up again for future consideration at the time of the fall primaries next September.

It was a novel thing to have voters
to the polls in sleighs and cabs and one which Janesville has never before witnessed. Rats have often hindered the electing in the past,
but never has there been several feet
of snow, making sleighs and buffalo robes one of the requisites for a proper campaign equipment.

The vote was considerably less than
at the spring election last year but
this can be accounted for by the fact

SKI TOURNAMENT AT STOUGHTON JAN. 22

Will be Biggest Event of Kind in Southern Wisconsin—Over $200 in Cash Prizes Hung Up.

Stoughton, Wis., Jan. 12.—The largest ski tournament ever held in southern Wisconsin will take place in this city Saturday, Jan. 22, under the auspices of the Stoughton Ski club.
Over $200 in cash prizes will be given away in addition to the club's gold medal and a large trophy cup offered by the Wisconsin State Journal of Madison. Efforts will be made to bring to this city for the tournament
the best skiers in the northwest.
With this purpose in mind, the club
will send invitations to every ski club within a radius of 300 miles, inviting
the skiers to compete in the tourney.
The prizes offered are the best ever put up by the club and the skis to be used will be the biggest and steepest ever used in this city. That jumps over 100 feet long will be made is not doubted by local skiers.

The prizes offered for the tourney
will be the following:

Professional class—First $10, second $5, third $2.50, fourth $1.50, fifth $.75.

Longest standing jump—Cash prize,
to be decided later.

The club's gold medal, won at the last tournament by Jacob Gjestad on a jump of 85 feet, will be placed as a prize. No entry fee will be charged for the tourney. The tournament will commence promptly at 1 o'clock.

The coming tourney is the largest exhibition of skiing that the local club has ever attempted. The event is being promulgated not for the proceeds, but merely to advertise the club and to make some new records.

Governor is a Member.
Although the local club has been in existence for about twenty-five years,
it recently underwent a reorganization. At its head are now young and active officers with modern ideas.
Since the change about three weeks ago, the new club has attained a membership of 30. While here on New Year's day, Governor J. O. Davidson joined the club. The governor is an enthusiastic follower of the sport and is expected to attend the tournaments held here this winter.

Have Large Slide.
The slide to be used in the coming tournament will be the best ever used in any local tournament. Although it has already undergone an extension
this winter, it will have been extended a second time and also made steeper
by the time of the next tourney.
While practicing on the slide in its present condition, Erling Lundvik,
one of the local skiers, last Thursday made a jump of 38 feet. This mark would have been equaled in the New Year's day tournament had the snow
not been so sticky. Great preparations for the coming tournament are being made by the club. It is expected that the event will draw one of the largest crowds ever gathered in this city.

Aeroplane Telephotos

It is a fact, special correspondent of The Gazette, was ordered to Germany last night to investigate the rumor that the Kaiser is taking lessons in love making.

By HI SEYMOUR.

Arrived safely at Berlin, the capital of the Empire, a city built in the shape of a Stein. There was no Trouble at all about finding the Kaiser.
The Tourist begins to see him as soon as he arrives in London. His laughing physiognomy is spread all over the Map of Europe and One can never escape getting tangled up in his busy Mustache. I introduced myself by saying "Hi" to the Kaiser. He said "Hi" back and the Kaiser said "Hi" back.

"Sure," he replied, "Charlie called on me on the way to China to get a Whiskey shanty off. He introduced himself as a famous Fabianist and in two hours my people were ready to go to war with England. I allowed Bill Bryan to shake my hand and offer me
faster than any Democrat in the world.
Next!"

"Now, William, I am here to ask you a very delicate question," I said.
"Why did you ask that French actress to deliver a Lecture on Love at your Hunting Lodge?"

The Kaiser chuckled at his Vest. Then he spoke a few words in German under his breath, which was a hint
worthy of Noddy, and said:
"Young fellow, I am a Married Man."

This convinced me at once that the Kaiser was a man of sense. He tried to talk Love to me.

"Granted," I said in reply, "but the Public wants to know just what Method the petite French Maid used.
Does she hold to the Theory that the stroking of the Chin, tossing baby Stewies and talking Goo Goo is more effective than holding hands and oscula-tion?"

"Sir, I am a Married Man," he replied.

"But my Editor insists upon knowing, and when an Editor insists it's time to get busy or call an Undertaker. Now, Bill, pardon this personal allusion, how close did the French Lass get to your Tackling Chair?"

At this point the Kaiser closed one eye, after the fashion of a Policeman
when the Velvet is placed in his left hand. We drew our chairs together and he poured this story into my receptive ears.

"It was like this: She was a Peach-
golden hair, blue eyes, a dainty mouth,
a charming presence, and a Way about her designed to make a Millionaire spend a Thousand for a Dinner and think it was only Ten Cents. The first Time I saw her I knew she was made for the Leather Pouch. Years ago she was a waitress and acquainted with the habit of dodging things. Her educa-

The Island of Regeneration

By Cyrus Townsend Brady

His uncle's management had been wise and prudent, he had spent little and had saved much, so that Charnock found himself the possessor of vast riches in the form of available capital. Among the first things he learned was the power of money, that he had been steeled by the memory of the woman, he would probably have learned it to his sorrow. As it was, he was almost miserly. He spent little upon himself. His wants were astonishingly few and contact with the world did not develop extravagant ideas. Those were things which he was too old to learn, against which he had been anchored. He was saving what he had and what he could get for some great purpose, a purpose of help, of assistance in which he could commemorate her name, for which future generations should rise up and call her blessed.

He had long talks with his uncle about it. The old man would find have had his nephew marry and carry on the ancient line. Delicately, tenderly, he broached the subject after a time, but the suggestion met with absolute refusal. Women interested Charnock as men did. Indeed his interest in his kind was intense. The intellectual stimulus of conversations with bright, intelligent people was the most entrancing result of his contact with the world. But none of them touched his heart. That was buried on that gemlike island in the far off sea.

He was a man of unusual force of character, prompt and unyielding decision. His uncle had not lived his long life without being able to estimate men. He recognized very early of it were announced, people stood amazed. An undertaking so great was not within the power even of Charnock. His resources were utterly unequal to it, but he had enough to make a magnificent beginning and by devoting to it the whole revenue of his estate, and the estate itself after he died, gradually the enterprise would be achieved.

There was no necessity for secrecy about it. Indeed with that simplicity and candor so unusual and so unconventional, which touch with the world had never been able to alter, he had spoken of his plans without reserve and he had declared with equal frankness that what he was doing was in memory of the noblest and the truest of women, to whom he owed it that he was a human being and not an animal.

Whittaker, of whose judgment he thought highly and with desert, was called from the naval service to be the executive head of the great undertaking. The spiritual work was to be placed in the hands of the chaplain who had so endeared himself to the promoter and deviser of it all. Charnock realized that these men who had known Katharine Brenton would enter more sympathetically into his views and could be depended upon to carry them out in case anything happened to him. He and his uncle and one or two others of excellent judgment whom he had met, were associated with the two mentioned to carry out all the founder's plans.

Now, this thing was not done in a corner. The news of it was carried over the United States and spread even to foreign lands. The world read it and marveled again. A newspaper carrying an account of it fell under the eye of a lonely man in San Francisco, who had just returned from a long voyage in northern seas. The name "Charnock" caught his eye first; and then Langford saw the name of the woman he loved. He read with avidity, appreciating as none could better do than he from his trained business men the scope and yet the feasibility of the undertaking. He had wondered cynically what would be the career of the man in the United States. He knew the value, as did every business man, especially every man with large transportation interests like his, of the Charnock estate. He would have wagered that Charnock would lose his head as ninety-nine men out of a hundred would have done, and that intoxicated by the sudden touch of the material world which was at his feet, he would have gone the usual pace; and he would have won his wager had it not been for the woman they both loved, he felt bitterly enough.

He sat alone in his office in the great building and pondered over the account in the paper. He had been mistaken in the man. He was really worth while. He was worthy of the woman. If he had not sworn an oath, given his word—He hesitated, smiling bitterly. The woman alone could release him. Should he sail down to the island with that paper and tell that story. He had waited too long. The army surgeons of Alaska had told him the brutal truth; that he had but a few months to live and that if he had anything to do before he went out into the beyond, he had better do it quickly. No, he could not go down there and tell her and get released from his promise.

Yet how Charnock would revel in such news as he, and he alone, could give him. He loved the woman and he hated the man. He could not bear to think that the man should have what was denied him. He could not bear to think of the woman he loved in another's arms. And yet he loved the woman. As he pictured Charnock happy, so he pictured Kate sad, fretting out her life on that island as he had fretted out his on the ship. And he could make her happy by a word if he broke his oath and was false to the pledged word he had given her. Should he do it for her sake? Would she forgive him? He would be past forgiveness when she knew.

Which was the stronger, his love for the woman or his hatred for the man? If he spoke at all, it would be for her sake, naught else. Would the man understand that, would she? Whatever happened, he had possessed her; she had been his for brief hours. Did he have the strength now to give her to someone else even though he were dead? Being dead, would he know?

The struggle racked and tore him in his heart. He could come to no decision, at least not then. What he would do later would depend upon circumstances. One thing he could do and that was to go and find the man. Attending to such matters as were most pressing and taking the precaution to make his will, a strange will, at which his attorney ventured to remonstrate unavailingly, at last he started on that journey across the continent in his private car. He left the car at Suffolk, Virginia, and with a motor which had been transported with him he ran up the west side of the inlet until he came to the minor house which a local guide, picked up by the way, pointed out to him.

Husbands and Dabblers. After the baby comes, a woman realizes that the lesson in patience she had to learn to get along with her husband, was only the a b c of what she had to learn later.—Atchison Globe.

The Struggle Racked and Tore Him in His Heart.

In the undertaking the fullness of argument, and though he tried to see in the presence of the witless, the cleverest, and most beautiful women of Virginia and elsewhere, for the two traveled throughout the United States, welcomed everywhere, his efforts were unavailing. There was more than one woman who would have been glad to accept the man's suit; whom, if he had wooed over so slightly he could have won, but he was friendly with everyone and in love with none.

At the end of two years society gave him up as confirmed in his isolation and loneliness. He was not the less welcome, but he was no longer a matrimonial possibility, nor was he any more the wonder that he had been. New things engrossed public attention. The world presently took Charnock as he would find have it take him, as a matter of course.

He did things slowly, not because that was his nature, but from an invincible determination to do things right. He made his plans deliberately and had formulated an enterprise so comprehensive in its scope, so vast in its outlay and with such infinite possibilities of help to the poor, the wretched, the down-trodden classes of society, that when the forebodings

Here is an example worth reading:

John Pollard, Edgerton, Wis., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills at different times for several years and in view of the good results I receive, I have no hesitation in recommending them. I suffered for some time from a dull pain in the small of my back and I was caused much annoyance by disordered kidneys. When Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my attention, I decided to give them a trial and procured a box. They gave me relief in a short time and before long I was free from the trouble. Since then, whenever I have felt any symptoms of a return, I have at once taken Doan's Kidney Pills, and they have never failed to drive away the attack. I know Doan's Kidney Pills to be a reliable kidney remedy." Price 50 cents. Foster-McMillan Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

THE FIRELESS COOKER.

The fireless cooker is a most valuable accessory to scientific food preparation, aside from the fact that it soon saves its cost. Temperature above 150, approaching the coagulating point of albumen, 160 Fahr., is injurious to any food, and the shorter the time the food is maintained at boiling point the better. The fireless cooker prepares food with less heat than the ordinary method; it should therefore be regarded as indispensable in every home. The next step in avoiding the injurious effect of heat in the deterioration of food will be an electric cooker, which will cook at a lower, more uniform temperature.

Answer This Question

When shown positive and reliable proof that a certain remedy had cured numerous cases of female ills, wouldn't any sensible woman conclude that the same remedy would also benefit her if suffering with the same trouble?

Here are two letters which prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Fitchville, Ohio.—"My daughter was all run down, suffered from pains in her side, head and limbs, and could walk but a short distance at a time. She came very near having nervous prostration, had begun to cough a good deal, and seemed melancholy by spells. Since taking two doctors but got little help. Since taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, Blood Purifier and Liver Pills she has improved so much that she feels and looks like another girl."—Mrs. C. Cole, Fitchville, Ohio.

Irassburg, Vermont.—"I feel it my duty to say a few words in praise of your medicine. When I began taking it I had been very sick with kidney and bladder troubles and nervous prostration. I am now taking the sixth bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and find myself greatly improved. My friends who call to see me have noticed a great change."—Mrs. A. H. Sanborn, Irassburg, Vermont.

We will pay a handsome reward to any person who will prove to us that these letters are not genuine and truthful—or that either of these women were paid in any way for their testimonials, or that the letters are published without their permission, or that the original letter from each did not come to us entirely unsolicited.

What more proof can any one ask?

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.
